“here to make life easy....”

In a smarter, busier, business world, the traditional office phone system has reached its limits.

We have developed a business solution that cuts the cord on desktop phones to revolutionise business communication. By using your existing smartphones, we can help your company replace its existing system and its outmoded hardware, support and installation needs. In fact, businesses do not even require an office to use MyChat. In a smarter, busier, business world, the traditional office phone system has reached its limits.

We have developed a business solution that cuts the cord on desktop phones to revolutionise business communication. By using your existing smartphones, we can help your company replace its existing system and its outmoded hardware, support and installation needs. In fact, businesses do not even require an office to use MyChat.

But it is far more than a decluttering device. We not only put your switchboard in the palm of your hand, we put the world there too.

Everyone knows mobile phones allow contact on the move, but they offer little scope for actually managing today's business communications influx. Replacing tired infrastructure, innovative MyChat attaches landline business numbers to your existing smartphones, making them a 'one-stop shop' for professionals. It retains all the functionality of an office telephone system, wherever you are.

Services include voicemail, auto attendant, call transfer, call forwarding and call recording. A further boost is the availability of landline numbers for more than 65 countries worldwide. Existing numbers can also be transferred to MyChat, making transition simple and quick.

Its flexibility allows new users to be added very quickly as business increases.

No capital investment is needed whatsoever, allowing cash funds to be deployed elsewhere in the business. Our service does not impact on data usage or incur data charges. When travelling overseas, MyChat works over that country's GSM network or WiFi service.yChat.
